

Texas Higher Education COORDINATING BOARD

Important: ApplyTexas Cutover Date

Dear colleagues,

First, we want to thank you for your time and commitment over the past couple of weeks as we've engaged in testing the new ApplyTexas application. Through your contributions, we have discovered remaining issues that require additional attention. We are committed to making sure ApplyTexas is the optimal application for Texas students and our institutions. As a result, we have decided to postpone the transition from May 17 to a later date.

Next week, our teams will be focused on creating solutions to the remaining issues. Therefore, we will temporarily pause our daily office hours, and if you have submitted a ticket, no additional action from you is required. On Friday, May 10, we will share an update on progress as well as next steps for additional testing opportunities.

We are dedicated to working together to make sure we have a successful launch of ApplyTexas. We appreciate your patience and continued partnership.

Respectfully,
Laura Brennan
